TEMPORA et MORES 1972

THE HARTRIDGE SCHOOL

We observe today . . . a celebration of freedom, symbolizing an end as well as a beginning, signifying renewal as well as change.

SENIORS

Time present and time past are both perhaps in time future, and time future contained in time past.

If all time is eternally present all time is unredeemable.

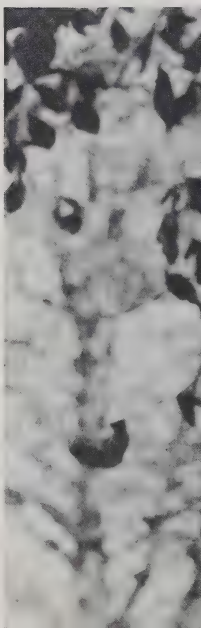
T.S. Eliot

Catherine Thibault

J'ai tendu des cordes de clocher a clocher; des guirlandes de fenetre a fenetre; des chaines d'or d'etoile a etoile, et je danse.



Dorian Lee Roll

The sky is clearing and the night has cried enough.
The sun he comes, the world to soften up.
Rejoice, rejoice, we have no choice But to carry on.

Patti Markowski

Think of all the things money can buy A ranch in the mountains
A pleasure for your eye But think of all the things that a dollar bill can't bring Like someone to hold you close A song for you to sing.

Dana

Robinson

Weeping may endure for a night,

But joy cometh in the morning.

Play for more than you can afford to lose,
And you will learn the game.

Susan Elizabeth Ainslie

Arna Beth Bronstein

Life is made up of small comings and goings, and for everything a man takes with him, there is something he must leave behind.

Anne Dabney Moon

I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving. . . We must sail sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it, but we must sail, and not drift, nor lie at anchor.

Michelle Leigh Veghte

Mountains have nerves.
The roots of the trees are the nerves of the mountains:
Mountains have ears.
They copy what man says.
Everybody calls it echoes.

Parry Justine Mooney

I guess my feet Know where they want me to go.

Time passes much too quickly when we're together laughing.

Suzanne L. Lang

Tomorrow, see the things that never come today.

Lisa Nan Rubin

darkness, loneliness, tears a void all alone and boarded up tight a vulnerable fortress uncertainty and fear. ...
Sudden light glowing all-encompassing warmth Caring and being cared galaxies of happiness Serenity.

ncy Brokaw right," said the Cat: and this time it quite slowly, begin the end of the tail, ing with the grin, ernained some time
rest of it had gone.

Ann H. Higgins

"Today well-lived makes yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope."

Bernetta Ogens

*"Be Generous with your love.
It is a treasure which grows when you give it away."*

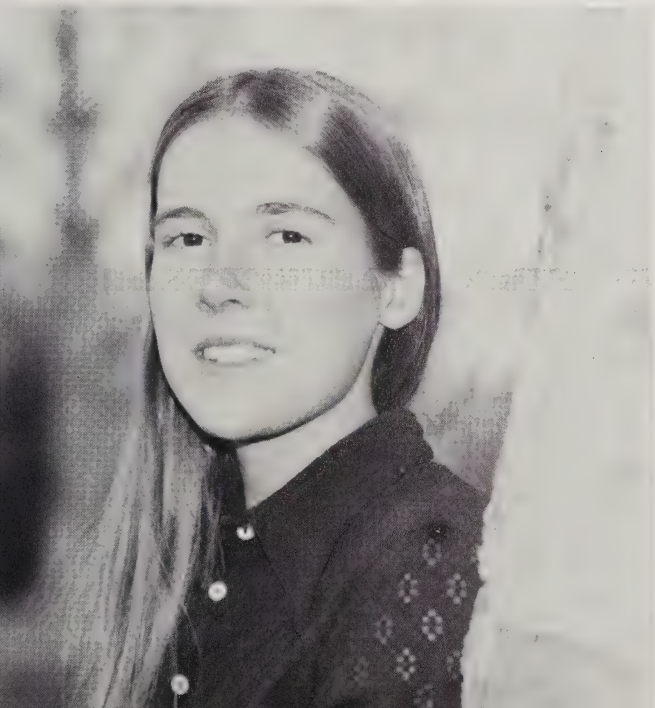
Life is what we are alive to!

Patty McCreary

Gina Millspaugh



For hope shall brighten days to come and memory gild the past.

Holli Martin

Patti Rodman

I was so much older then.
I'm younger than that now.

Keep me away from the wisdom which does not cry, the philosophy which does not laugh and the greatness which does not bow before children.

Beth Anne Howard

Julie Miner

We are all in the gutter, but some of us are looking at the stars.

Travis Sherbourne

"Flowers, too, suffer death,
And yet they are guiltless.
So, too, our own being is pure
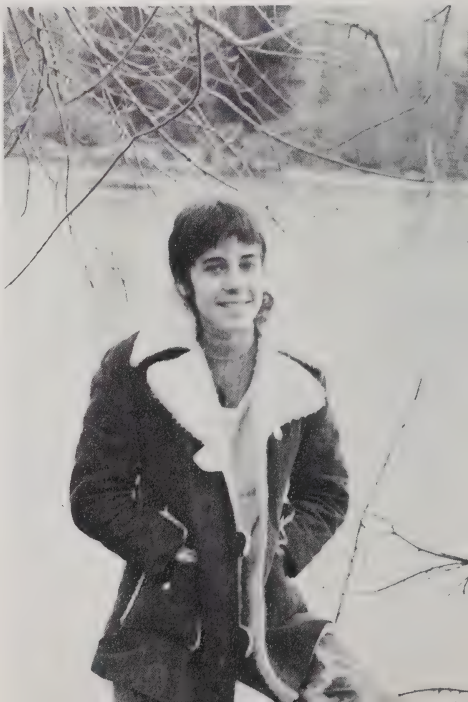
And suffers only grief, Where we ourselves do not wish to understand.
What we call guilt
Is absorbed by the sun,
It comes to meet us out of the pure throats
Of flowers fragrance and the moving gaze of children.
And as flowers die,
So we die, too.
Only the death of deliverance,
Only the death of rebirth."



Valerie Starr Domino

you tell me that silence is closer to peace than poems but if for my gift i gave you silence
- for i know silence - you would say this is not silence this is another poem and you would hand it back to me.

Portia Thorburn

I mean I can't go on I really Can't go on I swear I can't go on
So I guess
I'll get up And go on.

Sue Reid

A weed is no more than a flower in disguise.

Patricia Holly Hewit

"O, if yesterday were a child and today only antique smiles I would be the desperate dreamer meant to walk a thousand desperate miles."

"What a man thinketh in his heart, so he is"

Missy Van Buren

Wild Horses, couldn't drag me away, Wild Horses, we'll ride them someday.

Sheryl
Garfield

Living life isn't always easy.

One has to open up one's life and let the sun shine in.

Life has loveliness to sell All beautiful loveliness and lovely things, Blue waves whitened on a cliff, Soaring fire that sways and sings, Children's faces looking up Holding wonder like a cup.

Elizabeth Reeder

You have to study a great deal to know a little.

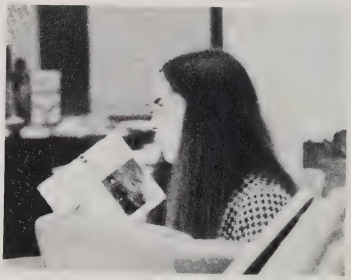
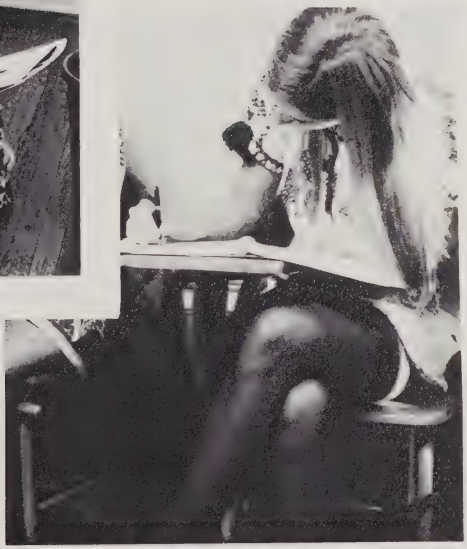
Montesquieu





How many miles to Babylon?
Three score miles and ten.
Can I get there by candle-light?
Yes, and back again.
If your heels are nimble and light,
You may get there by candle-light.

"The Place To Take The Family"

When a cicada comes out of the ground to enter the last stage of his life cycle, it looks more like a fat, earth-stained grub worm than a winged thing. Laboriously it climbs up the trunk of a tree, pulling itself along on legs that hardly seem to belong to it, for they move with painful awkwardness as though the creature had not yet got the hang of how to use them. At last it stops in its weary climb and clings to the bark by its front feet. Then, suddenly, there is a little popping sound . . . the creature's outer garment has split . . . Slowly now the thing inside begins to emerge . . . Slowly, slowly it accomplishes this amazing task, and slowly creeps into a patch of sun, leaving behind the brown and lifeless husk from which it came.

The living, elemental protoplasm, translucent, pale green now, remains motionless for a long time in the sun, but if one has the patience to watch it further, one will see the miracle of growth enacted before his very eyes. After a while the body begins to pulse with life, it flattens out and changes color like a chameleon, and from small sprouts on each side of the back the wings commence to grow. Quickly, quickly now, they lengthen out – one can see it happening – until they become transparent fairy wings, iridescent, shimmering in the sun. They begin to quiver delicately, then more rapidly, and all at once, with a metallic whirring sound, they cut the air and the creature flashes off, a new-born thing released into a new element.

Be not the watermelon of my life:
thick-skinned, seedy, sweet and not at all nourishing.

be not the salad: green and crisp and assuming the personality of your dressing.

be not the
Jello:
cold, flaccidly firm,
and always room for more because you're moldable.

be not the china: designed to be washed and used over and over and over and over again. just be yourself . . . and I'll be a cannibal.
